

Welcome

Founded in 1505, the University of Seville (US) is the second biggest university in Spain by way of the number of students (over 70,000) and the biggest in Andalusia. The US is a public university that promotes equal opportunities to incoming students, solely based on merits, critical thinking and the search and transference of knowledge to society.

What to study?

The University of Seville stands out for having one of the widest academic offers in the country in all the areas of knowledge, Arts and Humanities, Engineering and Technology, Social Sciences and Management, Natural Sciences and Life Sciences and Medicine. Teaching is conducted in 5 main campuses, spread throughout the city, with 26 centres (19 Faculties, 5 Higher Technical Schools of Engineering and Architecture and the International Graduate School). In addition to the various Departments of all the Faculties and Technical Schools, the US has 9 University Institutes of Research and 6 Joint Centres of Research with the Spanish Higher Scientific Research Council.

In the framework of the Higher European Education Area and the ECTS ("European Credit Transfer System"), the US offers 3 levels of Higher Education: Undergraduate Degree (in general 4 years: 4 x 60 ECTS/academic year = 240 ECTS), Master's Degree (1-2 years: 1-2 x 60 ECTS/academic year = 60-120 ECTS) and Doctorate (3-4 years).

Undergraduate and Master's Degrees belong to Faculties and Higher Technical Schools of Engineering and Architecture, while Doctorates and some International and Multidisciplinary Master's Degrees belong to the International Graduate School.

Strongly committed to internationalization, the US annually welcomes approximately 2,800 international students (both seeking a degree and in exchange) coming from over 100 countries and sends over 2.100 students to universities all over the world.
